Contract Recruiting Incorporated (CRI) Opens New Corporate Headquarters with State-of-the-Art Recruitment Research Center

Relocation of Inc. 500 Recruitment Outsourcing Solutions Firm Supports Company's Ongoing Commitment to Growth and Productivity

TORRANCE, Ca. (December 17, 2003) -- Contract Recruiting Incorporated (CRI), an Inc.500, best practice recruitment solutions outsourcing firm and trusted partner of Fortune 1000 and emerging growth companies, announced today the relocation of its corporate headquarters and state-of-the-art recruitment research center to Torrance, California.

CRI's relocation to Torrance, the thriving Los Angeles suburb which is home to the headquarters of many well-known organizations including Toyota Motor Sales (TMS), U.S.A., Inc., American Honda Motor Company, Inc., and International Energy Services Company (IESCO), Inc., took place this past weekend. The strategic move increases CRI's work environment exponentially while allowing for projected corporate growth over the next five years.

Selected for its strategic location, spaciousness and open design, CRI's new office and research center embrace and encourage the company's highly collaborative and energetic corporate culture. According to CEO Ladd Richland, "CRI was founded on the principles of shared values, inclusion, innovation, and respect for both colleagues and clients. The features, layout and flow of our new headquarters and research center provide additional workplace foundation for these principles. From the office's open team work areas, natural lighting, wide hallways, inviting conference rooms, brightly painted offices and cubicles, state-of-the art technology access-individuals and team are encouraged to communicate, knowledge-share, always work efficiently and be empowered."

While combining CRI corporate headquarters and state-of-the-art research center under a single roof nurtures the company's established principles and values, it also reduces the company's overall operating expenses and maximizes productivity to support client recruitment outsourcing needs and expansion goals. CRI's new headquarters and research center is home to approximately 100 on-premise and remote CRI employees nationwide.

The address and phone of CRI's new headquarters and recruitment research center is:
